THE BRUIN

PUBLISHED BY
THE SENIOR CLASS OF
BOLTON HIGH SCHOOL
ALEXANDRIA
LOUISIANA

FOREWORD

*T*HE BRUIN staff takes pleasure in presenting to the student body the 1930 edition of The Bruin. The staff desires to call especial attention to the theme, "Romances of Louisiana," and hopes its interpretation of one phase of Louisiana history will serve to inspire a more sincere appreciation of our beloved state and its glorious traditions of the past. Whatever its history may be, Louisiana, the land of the immortal Evangeline, will live forever.

"O Gabriel! O my beloved!

Art thou so near unto me, and yet thy voice does not reach me?

Ah! how often thy feet have trod this path the prairie!

Ah! how often thine eyes have looked on the woodlands around me!

Ah! how often beneath this oak, returning from the labor,

Thou hast lain down to rest, and to dream of me in thy slumbers."

ROMANCES OF LOUISIANA

*"Louisiana! Fair romance
Hath written many lines for thee.
Thy blood may boast of Spain and France,
As well as that of Arcady."*

LOUISIANA, since the day of her founding when LaSalle sailed down the Father of Waters and planted the French flag, has been woven into many legends because of its romantic background. Its picturesque characters, portrayed in poems and love stories of every nation, are living today as mementoes of their romantic past.

Louisiana possesses every qualification necessary to be the setting of such poignant love affairs. Nothing could be more beautiful than the shady bayous of southwest Louisiana, with the gray Spanish moss fluttering down from the tall, gnarled cypresses, which seem to hover over the water. Those bayous are such streams as Hiawatha would have loved to float on in his birch canoe—so cool, so restful, so musical, and so beautiful. One may have seen the sea at sunset, or the distant mountain ranges looming purple through the dawn; one may have seen the great Sahara, with its endless wastes of yellow sands, but until one stands on the banks of a Louisiana bayou or in the center of one of her virgin forests, be it morning, noon, or night, and gives his senses to the spell of the cypress, water and moss, he cannot possibly have seen and appreciated real beauty.

Louisiana is one of the most historic states in a historic nation. These numerous and versatile romances have affected our progress and our history. Not only the French, who contributed most, but also the Indians, Spanish and truly American characteristics have done their bit towards adding to this glamorous legend.

Evangeline lent pathos to the situation; Lafitte has inspired many a legend of reckless daring; St. Denis and Dona Maria added their chapter to the book of romance; Bienville accomplished the impossible, so that his love for the beautiful rival of Governor Cadillac's daughter, might be gratified.

Our theme is the romantic lovers of Old Louisiana. May we, in continuing our school career and in later life, be greatly inspired and influenced by the endurance, the intensity, and the eternal faithfulness of those lovers of that by-gone day when the French king's scepter waved over our state.

DEDICATION

The Senior Class of 1930, in sincere appreciation of his services to us, wish to dedicate this Sixth Volume of The Bruin to Mr. Hardy Beseler, whose enthusiasm and untiring services for the betterment of athletics have inspired the entire student body to be good winners and good losers—who, since his coming to Bolton in 1922, has proved to be a friend as well as an instructor to all those with whom he has come in contact.

IN MEMORIAM

KATIE SCHWAB
1912—1929

*"Like a beautiful song that was sung she has passed
Into the hush of the valley of silence,
With the dream of a smile on her face
As soft as a gleam after sunset."*

*Oh, luckless maiden, woe
is thine,
From whom thy lover's
arms were snatched
Because of difference in faiths,
His heart and thine could
not be matched.
Thou gazeth now from
convent walls,
Deprived of love and happiness.*

A STUDENT'S LAMENT!

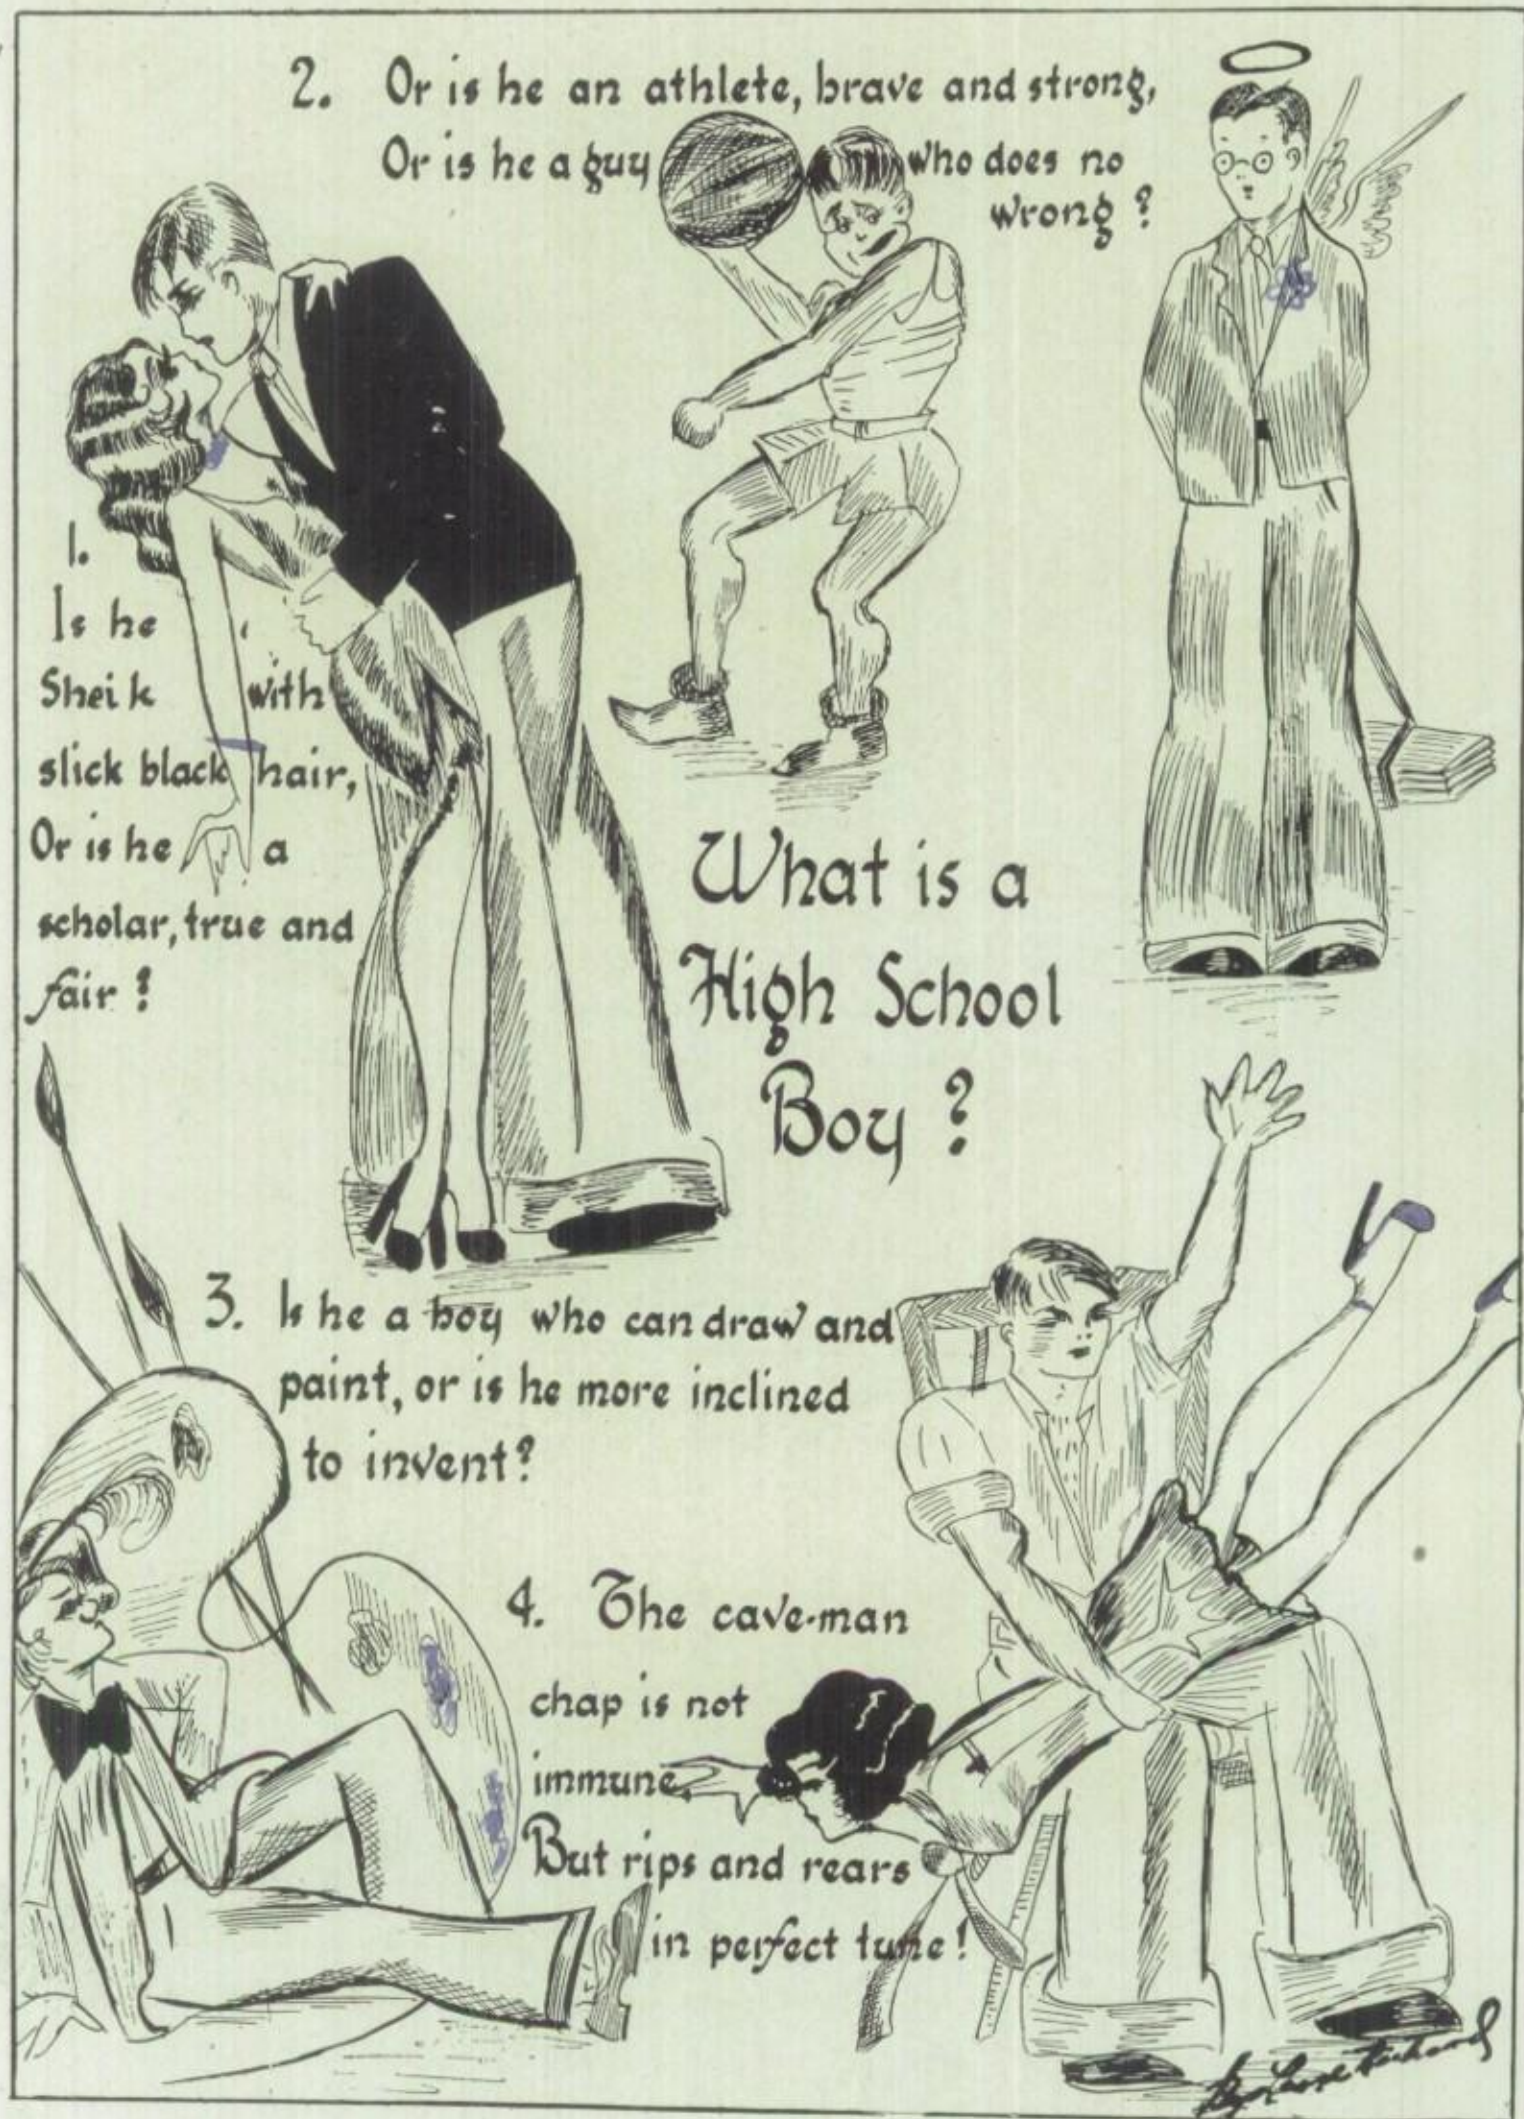

I came to school one Monday morn,
 A dew was on the ground;
 I had so much to do
 My head went round and round.
 I had a theme and book report
 To make on that fair day.
 So just to show I was a sport (?)
 I slyly slipped away.

MILDRED D. (at baseball game)—Oh, look, we have a man on every base.
 MARY STUART W.—That's nothing, so has the other side.

THE SEVEN STAGES OF A BOLTON STUDENT

(With Apologies to Shakespeare)

All the school's a jail,
And all the teachers merely wardens.
They have their faults and their fancies,
And one teacher in his time plays many parts,
His acts being to guard our seven stages.
At first the attendance teacher,
Correcting and guiding us from harms.
And then the English teacher, scowling and frowning,
When e'er we choose to call a verb a noun.
Then the study hall teacher, with pencil
In one hand and demerit pad in other,
Sudden and quick in writing when we choose to talk.
Then the captivity period, where we are held
Captives for awhile, deep in study, or
So the teacher thinks!
Then the bookkeeping teacher (Mr. Franck),
With eyes severe and beard of formal cut,
Full of wise saws and modern instances,
And so he plays his part.
Then the history teacher with map on wall
And rule in hand, to point the places
We all should know so well.
Last scene of all that ends this strange,
Eventful day, the "kept in room," where
Lo, we find, second childishness and mere oblivion
Sans tablet, sans book, sans pencil, sans everything.

MR. BRAME (seeing small boy playing out in front of school)—How old are you, son?

TINY TOT—I'm just at the awkward age.

MR. BRAME—How's that?

TINY TOT—I'm too old to cry and too young to cuss.

WHAT WOULD HAPPEN:

1. If Mary Tom couldn't chew gum?
2. If Jeane LaGrone failed to recite well in class?
3. If Mr. Brame should suspend the rules?
4. If the canteen would credit students?
5. If the cafeteria served a turkey dinner once a week?
6. If the Cumtux got a thousand subscriptions?
7. If Mr. Brame had no announcements to make in assembly?
8. If Miss Morris' attendance class would listen to the announcements?
9. If Miss Preston couldn't "pop" her fingers?
10. If some kind person would try to play that trombone that Mr. Smith has?
11. If Merle Brister missed the honor roll?
12. If The Bruin staff brought its work in on time?
13. If Ann wouldn't get mad when those bad boys call her "Red"?
14. If Virginia didn't come to school at noon with John?
15. If we poor students could go to the little grocery store, across the street, for gum?
16. If Miss Thornton couldn't "holler" at a basketball game (preferably the one with the "Red River Rats")?
17. If Miss Burk should lose her glasses?
18. If Mr. Miller didn't call you to the book store when he found your book without a cover?
19. If Miss Pride couldn't use the library?
20. If Charlie "Mc" passed Spanish?
21. If Kathleen Fava's hair stayed up?
22. If Ray should lose her bobby pins?
23. If you ever saw Mathilde without Peyton.

*On a perilous mission
Bienville was sent,
For he had broken a maid-
en's heart,
And revenge was in her
father's soul,
For his daughter's love
had gone untold.
But Bienville returned, his mission complete,
And the garlands of glory
were placed at his feet.*

THE CARNIVAL

The social life of Bolton High School reached its height on Friday night, February 28, when the Carnival ball was held. Long before the appointed hour, the auditorium was crowded with eager spectators, proud parents and the social buds of Bolton.

The court was modeled after the Court of Isabella and Ferdinand, and the decorations, music, and costumes carried out this Spanish theme to perfection.

Her Royal Highness the Queen, Miss Evelyn Begnaud, was superb in her golden gown, tiny crimson slippers, and the Spanish comb in her hair. Billy Gandy, her King, was regal in his costume of a cavalier with the royal purple robe over his shoulder, the golden crown on his head, and the scepter of the royal state in his hand.

The four maids wore long costumes in bouffant style with mantillas of old lace draped over high Spanish combs, while each knight, in the costume of a cavalier of times gone by, carried his lady's colors in neckerchief and flowing sash. The maid-of-honor, Miss Ray Foote, in orange, entered on the arm of her handsome Spanish knight, Fred Bearden. Miss Virginia Rockwell, gallantly escorted by Jack Keith, was beautiful in rose and silver. Miss Mildred Dunnam entered next in gown of orchid with accessories of harmonizing tints. L. G. Neilson was her handsome knight. Miss Lurlene Blackwood's blonde beauty showed off to an unusual advantage in her frock of blue, as she entered with her knight, John Overton.

At 10 o'clock the floor was given over to general dancing and, under the spell of soft music, the couples made merry until the lateness of the hour forced them to bid adieus.

NINETY-FOUR MAKE THE HONOR ROLL

Of the eleven hundred pupils enrolled in Bolton High School the first term, ninety-four made an average of 90 or more in their subjects, while some fifteen or twenty, who made a ranking of 89 and a fraction, may easily bring the year's grade up to the level required for the scholarship "B" to be awarded in May, which is based on the work of two consecutive terms. The girls outnumbered the boys, 59 to 35, in the aggregate, and in every term except II and VI, where they tied, and in Term I, where there were two more boys than girls.

Merle Brister, Term VII, made the highest average in the school, $97\frac{1}{2}$, with Alice Baker, V, next with $97\frac{1}{4}$, and Helen Bolton, II, coming third with $96\frac{1}{2}$. Dicky Hathorn had the highest average in Term I,

CAFETERIA

Bolton High School has a right to be proud of its cafeteria for it is not only the most wonderful one in the state but the best of its kind in the South.

It is under the capable management of Miss Margaret Hegberg, who has been in charge for four years. Miss Hegberg's staff is made up of four cooks, famous for their cooking, and fifteen girls and boys who serve.

Lunch is served from 11:30 to 1, and during these hours a repast of the most delicious southern cooking, for which Louisiana is famous, can be enjoyed.

FOOTBALL

The 1930 football team had few heavy men left from last year and was therefore composed of light men. Nevertheless, led by Captain Mahfouz, the team played inspirational football, and many teams bowed in defeat under the Bears' determined assaults.

BASKETBALL

The basketball team was considerably weakened by the loss of many of its last year lettermen through graduation. However, under Coach Beseler's expert selection and McCarty's leadership, the team showed promise of a good season. The Bears entered the Central Louisiana tournament with a fighting spirit and captured third place. Other games of the season were: Bolton 19,

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

The "Lady Bears" showed themselves to a special advantage this season by winning eight out of ten games. This splendid showing entitled them to enter the state tournament. Under the management of Bernice Smith and the coaching of Miss Thomas, the team gave an excellent display of team-work in the Central Louisiana tournament. They played third in the tournament.

The results of the games played were: Bolton 22, State School 16; Bolton 17, St. Francis 14; Bolton 18, Providence 9; Bolton 21, Dry Prong 15; Bolton 15, Dry Prong 28; Bolton 28, Jena 36; Bolton 22, Jena 21; Bolton 22, Louisiana College 23; Bolton 18, Trout-Good Pine 12; Bolton 28, Pollock 16.

BASEBALL

Although, in past years, baseball has not received as much attention in Bolton as other athletics, recently, interest has grown by leaps and bounds.

The team is fortunate in having six letter men, who played in 1929, and, with a little more practice, will furnish strong competition for any in the state. Sanchez, captain; Tudor, alternate captain; Mahfouz, White, Webb and Price form the nucleus for the nine, and Hale, Duhon and Kimball are excellent material. The pitchers are Segrist, Davis, Lolan and Webb, all of whom have proved by their steady determination, that they are reliable players. Milner, catcher; Smith, outfielder; Hines, infielder; Daniels, first base, and Barron, first base, making up the subordinate lineup, will probably be the 1931 letter men. With such a team a successful season is practically assured.

TENNIS

This year, Bolton has as its girl entries in the tennis tryouts, Ernestine Simpson and Dorothy Soden. Both girls are in excellent trim, and it is hard to tell who will represent us in the Central Louisiana and State Rallies. Ernestine and Dorothy have played two matches so far, Dorothy winning the first and Ernestine the second.

The boy tennis stars at Bolton this year are Benton Patterson and Frank Keslinsky.

In the tryout for singles, Frank Keslinsky won over Benton, but they are both good players and promise excellent competition in both singles and doubles.

The mixed doubles will be made up of Benton Patterson and the girl who fails to win out in the single tryout.

Such a team as Bolton has this year should show championship caliber and win the tournament for Bolton.

TRACK

Track season opened in earnest on March 3, this year, when Coach Oliphant issued the call for the cinder track candidates. Our coach hails from the Magnolia state where he represented the Mississippi A. & M. College of Starkville, Miss., in the mile and two-mile events. Before coming to Alexandria he coached track and other sports for a number of years at Vicksburg, Miss.

Letter men who answered the first call were Nolan Marye, Henry Messenger, Charlie Moore and Harry McGinnis. All of these men made excellent records in dual meets and rallies last year. At the beginning of the season, Charlie Moore was lost to the team due to an old injury, received during the football season. His injury re-occurred in the Bolton, Lecompte, Marksville meet, which Bolton won by a wide margin on March 15.

The next meet scheduled, Lake Charles on March 22, was cancelled on account of an emergency.

On March 28 the Bolton High School trackmen engaged in a quadrangular meet on their own home grounds with Winnfield, Glenmora and Lecompte. The score in this meet was: Bolton 71, Winnfield 37, Glenmora 20, and Lecompte 12.

Other meets on the schedule to be engaged in are listed below:

Baton Rouge (at Baton Rouge), April 3.

Central Louisiana Rally, Pineville, April 11 and 12.

State High School Rally, April 25 and 26.
